

Isabella Mori

Isabella Mori is a mother, grandmother, wife, friend, sister. She also writes: poetry, novels, short stories and non-fiction and has published two books of and about poetry, A bagful of haiku – 87 imperfections, and isabella mori's teatable book. She lives in Vancouver, Canada, in a way-too-big house, enjoys being surrounded by houseplants, flowers and trees, and takes long, long walks. She grew up in Germany in a wonderfully chaotic artists' household and has spent some time in Paraguay and Chile. Isabella has a Masters Degree in Education and works in the mental health/addiction field.

Follow her @moritherapy

And on her blog at moritherapy.org